HAND TROWEL

- A hand trowel is a versatile tool for digging out weeds from both small and tight spaces in the garden.
- It's essential for precision weeding around delicate plants and in narrow areas where larger tools can't reach.

GARDEN HOE

- A garden hoe is ideal for removing weeds from larger areas of soil.
- It can be used to break up soil, chop weeds at the roots, and cultivate the soil surface to prevent weed growth.

WEEDING FORK

- A weeding fork is designed with sharp tines that penetrate the soil to lift and remove weeds, including tap-rooted varieties.
- It's particularly useful for extracting deep-rooted weeds without disturbing surrounding plants.

HAND WEEDER

- Hand weeders, also known as dandelion diggers, have a narrow blade or forked tip for prying weeds out of the ground.
- They're perfect for targeting individual weeds with deep roots and minimizing soil disruption

LONG-HANDLED HOE

- A long-handled hoe allows you to weed while standing upright, reducing strain on your back and knees.
- It's ideal for larger garden plots and for quickly cutting through weeds in rows or between plants.

WEED PULLER

- Weed pullers, also called weed extractors or weed poppers, use a lever mechanism to grab and remove weeds from the ground.
- They're effective for pulling out weeds with minimal bending and effort, making them suitable for people with mobility issues.

BRUSH CUTTER

- A brush cutter is a powerful tool for tackling dense vegetation and overgrown weeds, particularly in larger garden areas or along fence lines.
- It's equipped with a rotating blade that cuts through thick weeds and brush with ease.

MINI TILLER

- A mini tiller, also known as a cultivator, helps to break up compacted soil and control weeds in vegetable gardens and flower beds.
- It's lightweight and maneuverable, making it suitable for smaller gardening tasks and tight spaces.
